Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG Version 2.1) Voluntary Statement

Magnusmode strives to make their products and services accessible to the most recent standard for accessibility, the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG version 2.1). Accordingly, we have conducted a voluntary product assessment test (VPAT) of the MagnusCards© app and are working towards WCAG version 2.1.

While a VPAT can be an essential aid in assessing the availability of products with accessibility features, it is important to note that, even in cases where a product conforms to relevant standards and technical specifications, an end user may still encounter difficulties utilizing it due to the nature or severity of his or her disability. On the other hand, a product that may not fully conform to all technical requirements may still be perfectly accessible to an end user who has a disability, but does not need a particular accessibility feature, e.g., a large-button telephone handset for an individual with a hearing disability.

While there may not be a perfectly accessible product, many can still be used effectively and efficiently by most people with disabilities. If you encounter any issues with our MagnusCards app or the Magnusmode website, please contact us at feedback@magnusmode.com.
